Dewey Supporter Quits, Says He Was Criticized

Sprague Says He Sold Stock to Avoid Conflict of Interests

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—J. Russel Sprague, under fire for his ownership of stock in the racket-plagued Yonkers Raceway, resigned today as a member of the Republican National Committee.

Sprague said he had been wanting to retire for three years, but he made it plain the furor over his racetrack holdings was a factor in his stepping out at this time.

"It would be foolish and unrealistic of me to ignore the fact that there have been criticisms of me because of my ownership of race track stock," he said in his letter of resignation.

Sprague, a long-time power in Republican circles, was the central figure among forces that twice won the Republican Presidential nomination for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

A resident of Long Island, and a Republican leader in his home county of Nassau, Sprague has been a member of the National Committee for 13 years.

Latest in Reverberations
His resignation came as the latest reverberation of the race track scandals, which have sparked a special investigation by a state commission set up by Dewey.

Shakedown of employees and hiring of ex-convicts at huge salaries as "trouble shooters" at the tracks have been charged. Several labor leaders have been indicted in Nassau county where Roosevelt Raceway is located.

In his resignation, Sprague declared that he had never even owned the racetrack stock he held, and that no act of his has ever "even remotely reflected any personal financial interest."

But he added that he realized he couldn't demonstrate these facts to all voters of the nation "so that uninformed criticism might have no adverse effect on the fortunes of the party and the nation."

Sprague also made an indirect reference to another affair that has rocked Republican quarters in the state: the controversy over the Arthur Wicks' visits to imprisoned labor extortionist Joseph Fay.

Because of the visits, Dewey has demanded that Wicks quit as Senate majority (Republican) leader, but Wicks is battling Dewey on the matter.

Letter to Taylor
Sprague, in his letter to State Republican Chairman Dean P. Taylor, said:

"You and the governor are now jointly engaged in a major struggle to see to it that no individual shall place himself above the interests of the party."

Sprague emphasized that he himself had always put party interest "above any personal or private interest of my own," and that he would continue to do so.

So far as his racetrack interests are concerned, Sprague said that several years ago, fearing there might be a conflict of private and party interests, he sold his stock, at a loss to his family.

But no conflict developed, he said, and since that time he "a personal and family ownership of what I regard as comparatively incidental, beneficial interest."

He said he never had anything to do with racetrack management. Since the people of Nassau county are fully aware of these facts, he said, he planned to resign.

Alarm at 5:37
The alarm was sounded at 5:37 p. m., from Box 2331, East Strand and Ferry street. Men and equipment from Central and Cornell stations and Union and Cordis hose companies answered the first call, and Chief Murphy said as soon as he arrived he called in Rapid Hose Company and issued a stand-by order for Wicks Engine Company. The latter arrived on the stand-by from 5:32 p. m., until 1 a. m. today.

Available off-duty men were also called back, the chief said, and later Rapid Hose Company was sent to stand by at Central station.

Volunteers Assist
Volunteer firemen turned out in impressive force, the chief said, and were of important assistance in fighting the stubborn blaze. Men and equipment from Wiltwyck station were removing and wetting down the remaining bales of rags in the building today and some of the bales were still smoldering.

Chief Murphy said Edwin Bahl, who with Milton, operates the waste materials business, told the chief that he had left the building only about 10 minutes before the alarm was sounded.

Aaron Bahl, who, with Jack Schiavoni, conducts Anky Sales Co., said he considered his store of toys and games a complete loss. Only partial insurance was carried, he said. The loss, because of the nearness of the Christmas shopping season, was a harder blow to the company than it would have been at any other time of the year, he said.

Money Is Distributed
Albany, Nov. 13 (AP)—State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern announced today the distribution of $22,745,904.96 in per capita aid to cities, towns and villages. New York city's share of the payment, which is the third quarterly installment for the 1953-54 fiscal year, amounted to $13,294,140.18. On the basis of the 1950 federal census, each city receives an annual allotment of $6.75 for each inhabitant, towns $3.35 and villages $3.

Parley Will Resume in Panmunjom

Advisers Refuse News on Results — Hull to Press for Release of Anti-Reds

Panmunjom, Nov. 13 (AP)—Top U. S. and Red negotiators return tomorrow to discuss plans for a Korean peace conference after a week's recess while staff advisers worked in secret on an agenda.

The advisers ended a series of six secret meetings today but refused to give any information on the results. However, they apparently reached some sort of agreement since the top delegates were called back.

Meanwhile, Gen. John E. Hull, UN Far East commander, said in Korea he would "absolutely" press for the release of all remaining anti-Red Korean and Chinese war prisoners on Jan. 22 if the already late conference hasn't begun by then.

Would Object to Claim
By this, Hull meant the UN would object to any Red claim that any prisoners be held longer for any reason.

The truce agreement specifies that all unrepatriated POWs be released as civilians one month after the end of efforts to woo them home if the political conference has not settled their fate.

The Red interview program, now at a standstill, is due to end Dec. 23 by UN interpretation. The peace conference, originally scheduled to start by Oct. 28, has been stymied by the deadlock over an agenda for planning the talks.

The explanations hung in stalemate Thursday for the eighth straight day and no interviews were scheduled for Friday.

The Communists gave no sign of accepting an Indian plan for speeding up the interviews, insisting again on talking with 356 Chinese POWs not interviewed when one 492-man compound was called up Nov. 5.

Reds Have Refused
The Reds have refused since then to call any other group and the 356 POWs have refused to come.

The Repatriation Commission heard a formal protest by the Red satellite Polish and Czech delegates against "illegal refusal" of the prisoners.

The custodian Indian command said previously it would be almost impossible to separate those who were interviewed from those who were not.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India, chairman of the Repatriation Commission, had told the Reds to call 500 POWs a day, interview as many as they want and forget the others. He indicated Indian troops would take over the explanations if the Reds don't get down to business.

Vishinsky Assails American 'Plot'

United Nations, Nov. 13 (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky charged today that aggressive American plots against the Soviet Union have created international tensions making disarmament impossible.

He listed three main examples of the alleged American policy as the establishment of a ring of air bases surrounding Russia, plans for the remilitarization of western Germany and thwarting of a Korean peace conference.

Yonkers, Nov. 13 (AP)—Two stable hands were severely burned early today when fire broke out in a stall of an empty stable at the Yonkers Raceway. The injured men were Charles Crapper, 56, of Freehold, N. J., with second-degree burns of the hands and face, and Washington Simmons, 65, of Freehold, burned about the hands and face. They were taken to Yonkers General Hospital.

Firemen said the two men had sleeping quarters in the stable, and the fire started when a heater exploded. Firemen quickly extinguished the flames. The damage was confined to the interior of the one stable. The two injured men were employees of Charles Dean, of Freehold.

Wicks Asks GOP to Judge Dewey Action on Luciano; Democrats Back Wicks

Opposition For Luciano Case Review

Minority Leaders Agree With Party Chiefs in Demanding Session Be Broadened

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—State Democratic leaders are backing Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks' demand for a look into Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's handling of the Charles (Lucky) Luciano parole.

They went a step further than Wicks, however, and decided yesterday to press for a broadening of the scope of next Tuesday's special session of the Legislature to include the Luciano matter.

Wicks, on the carpet for having visited extortionist Joseph Fay in Sing Sing Prison, merely called on the GOP executive committee to "pass judgment" on Dewey's action seven years ago.

Meeting Is Held
Richard H. Balch, Democratic state chairman; William J. O'Shea, chairman of the Democratic state committee's law committee, and Sen. Francis J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Eugene F. Brannigan, both of New York, the legislative minority leaders, met soon after Wicks' statement was issued.

Balch already had demanded that Dewey broaden the call for the legislative session to include an investigation of the State Correction Department, the Alcohol Beverage Control Board and the Harness Racing Commission, repeal of the rent hike law and cancellation of the New York city fare increase.

The special session is now scheduled to deal only with reapportionment of the state Senate districts, aside from an effort that might be made to relieve Wicks as temporary president of the Senate. It is through this post that the Kingston Republican leader has assumed the duties of the vacant lieutenant governorship.

Justice Tom Clark Refuses to Comply With Subpoena

Offers to 'Consider' Any Written Questions in White Case Inquiry

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark refused today to comply with a subpoena to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee on the Harry Dexter White case.

Clark offered, however, to give "serious consideration" to any written questions the committee may wish to send him.

In a letter to the committee, Clark said his rejection of the subpoena on the premise that the judiciary branch of the government is independent of the legislative.

Same Basis
This is the same constitutional basis on which former President Truman declined yesterday to honor a committee subpoena.

Truman's stand was that the executive branch of the government was not subject to authority of the congressional branch.

Truman hinted today, however, that he may yet speak out on the charge by Atty. Gen. Brownell that he promoted White, a treasury aide now dead, in 1946 despite an FBI report that White was a Russian spy.

The ex-President told reporters during a morning walk in New York that his refusal to comply with the subpoena did not necessarily mean he would remain silent on the controversy.

Truman declined any specific comment on the brief hearings yesterday by the Senate Internal Security Committee which questioned his former military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, among others.

Vaughan testified that FBI reports intended for the President were customarily handed to him but that he did not remember any report relating to White.

Will Appoint Burke
Nassau, Bahamas, Nov. 13 (AP)—Mayor-elect Robert F. Wagner of New York announced yesterday he is appointing his long time friend, Adrien P. Burke, as corporation counsel at a salary of $25,000 a year. He said Burke served as manager for both his primary and general election campaigns. The mayor-elect and his party are spending a two week vacation here.

Wicks' Statement On Dewey, Luciano

Following is the reply of Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks to the resolution unanimously approved Thursday by the Republican State Executive Committee:

I have just been informed of the resolution adopted this afternoon by the Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee, censuring me for my conduct in visiting Joseph Fay at Sing Sing Prison to seek his aid in settling labor disputes in my senatorial district. The resolution characterizes my acts as "not in keeping with the ethical standards of public officers."

If this resolution truly expresses the sentiments of the members of the Executive Committee, then another special meeting of the committee should be called before November 17 so that it can pass judgment on Governor Dewey's conduct in the Luciano case. Consistently, they cannot condemn my conduct in the Fay case and condone the governor's in the Luciano case. If my conduct in the one case is reprehensible, the governor's in the other is more so.

Luciano was convicted in 1936 for compulsory prostitution and sentenced to fifty years in Dannemora prison. I do not know whether Governor Dewey personally visited him in prison or whether he sought aid from him through emissaries or intermediaries, because the Executive Department has put the record of the Luciano case under wraps and will not make it public. Certain facts have come to light, however. (See for example the book, "Narcotics: America's Peril," by Ousler & Smith, 1952, pp. 154-157.)

One day a certain character visited Luciano at Dannemora prison. The next day Luciano was transferred to the much less strict prison at Great Meadows. His transfer could not have been effected without some degree of sanction from the governor's office, after all, the prisons are under the jurisdiction of the Executive Department.

But that is not all. On January 3, 1946, Governor Dewey granted Luciano the greatest favor at his disposal. At that time, he pardoned Luciano and gave him his freedom, ostensibly because of some contributions Luciano had made to the war effort. Of course, Luciano was in jail during all the war period, that is, for the period between 1936 and 1946. Whatever Luciano did for the war effort, therefore, must have been done from behind prison walls. Yet the governor rewarded him for it by a pardon! As I said in my radio and television broadcast, it is la-

Pageant to Signal Start Of 1953 Yule Seals Sale

A pageant marking the opening of the 1953 Christmas Seal Sale will be staged at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Montgomery Ward and Co. store window on North Front street at the head of Wall street.

Music and singing of little children will be featured, based upon the design of the Christmas Seal: A Carol singing child in green stocking cap and red mittens. The design is by Elmer Jacobs, Chicago illustrator.

James L. Rowe, county chairman, reported from the office of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association that the response to a contest for the best little caroler in the county has met with great enthusiasm and interest.

After several elimination contests in various townships of the county as well as the city of Kingston, 15 children were invited to attend the general elimination held Saturday morning. In spite of snow and bad roads, 12 children came with their parents to the WKNY studios to participate in the contest. Judges were Miss Gloria Massa, Mrs. Frank Rafferty of Kingston, Mrs. William Plimly of Saugerties.

Chosen as finalists were Tom Sinagra of Highland; Martha Jean Russell, West Hurley; Gloria McLaughlin, Saugerties; and Priscilla Brown of 67 Wrentham street.

These children will appear before an applause meter set up through the cooperation of the radio station and Montgomery Ward store. The caroler receiving the most applause tonight will be chosen to sell the first sheet of 1953 Christmas Seals to Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, president of the Ulster County TB and Health Association. Dick McCarthy will be the master of ceremonies.

All children who have had any part in the township or city eliminations are invited to participate in the chorus of carols which will be sung during the exercises. A group of children from St. Joseph's Church and St. James Methodist Church choirs will augment the chorus. Singing will be under the direction of Mrs. Frank Rafferty, and Pat Rozinski, a pupil in accordance at the Roger Baer Studio, will accompany the singing.

Mailing of the seals to residents has been planned so that most persons on the list will receive them Monday.

Says Governor Granted Favor to Convict, but He Never Did; Raps Double Standard

Albany, Nov. 13 (AP)—The ouster storm raged on today around acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks.

A tide of bitterness was loosed yesterday when the Republican state executive committee called unanimously for Wicks' resignation or ouster as Senate leader because he visited labor racketeer Joseph Fay in prison.

The Kingston Republican struck back at Gov. Dewey, who had asked him to resign, by citing the case of vice lord Charles "Lucky" Luciano.

He called on the GOP policy-forming committee to hold a special meeting before the Senate session and "pass judgment on Gov. Dewey's conduct" in commuting the sentence of Luciano for deportation to Italy.

Two Senators Unimpressed
Among the first senators to comment on the committee's action were two Rochester Republicans, George T. Manning and Frank E. Van Lare. They were asked last night by newsmen whether the resolutions served as an indication of how they would vote next week. Both said no.

"I don't think it right to try the man (Wicks) before Tuesday," Van Lare added.

Rep. Dean P. Taylor, the state GOP chairman, told newsmen yesterday he believed "there are enough votes" among Senate Republicans to remove Wicks if he refuses to resign.

And Taylor apparently put his own political future at stake by saying he would "very seriously consider" resigning as chairman if Wicks did not quit and the Senate made no vote to oust him.

The 65-year-old senator, who has denied any wrongdoing in visiting Fay said in his challenge to the committee he did "not claim the governor acted improperly in the Luciano case."

Sentence Was Commuted
Dewey commuted Luciano's sentence in 1946, after the vice king had served 10 years of a 50-year term for compulsory prostitution.

The governor said in commuting the sentence that Luciano's aid had been sought by the armed services during World War 2 in "inducing others to provide information concerning possible enemy attack." Dewey added: "It appears that he cooperated in such effort."

In hitting at Dewey, Wicks asserted that "perhaps the governor did not seek Luciano's favor—but he certainly granted him one—for aid rendered."

"In my case, I granted no favor to Fay—and that, essentially, is the only difference between the two cases," Wicks said. He added: "There cannot be a double standard of conduct for public officials—one for the governor and another for the lieutenant governor."

The senate leader concluded: "If members of the Executive Committee frown on my conduct, therefore, they should, in fairness, apply the same standard to the governor."

"In fairness, too, this should be done before next Tuesday."

Girl, 13, Found Safe; Was Seized To Honor Baker at Dinner on Nov. 28
New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—A 13-year-old girl was found today apparently unharmed after being kidnapped from her East Side Manhattan home and held captive for almost four hours by a scar-faced man.

The girl, Dorothea Del Longo, was wearing only pajamas and a coat when she was forced into a car about 5 a. m. (EST) after the scar-faced man had terrorized her family for an hour. Police said she reported the man put her out of the car about 9 a. m. after giving her $5. Police said the girl had been riding around in the kidnaper's car for about four hours.

She still was wearing the pajamas and coat when found in front of the Woodside branch post office in Queens. She asked a passerby, Helen Doyle of 37-47 61st St., Woodside, to call her a taxi. Miss Doyle told the girl there was a taxi stand a block down the street. "I don't want to go down there," the girl replied. "I have on pajamas under this coat." Police were called and the girl was taken to Elmhurst police station for questioning. A doctor was called in. Police said she apparently had not been harmed. Police broadcast an alarm for a two-tone green sedan, believed to be the one used by the kidnaper.

College Song Gets Around

Columbia, Mo. (AP)—The universities of Missouri and Kansas are deadly rivals on the gridiron and the basketball court. But they use the same tune for their Alma Mater songs. The words are different, of course, but the tune is the same "Annie Lisle" which has become famous as the school song of Cornell, Alabama, Indiana, Lehigh and other universities. No one seems to know how old the tune is. It was known as "Annie Lisle" when the Cornell song "Far Above Cayuga's Waters," was written in 1872.

Bow and Arrow Explorer

New York (AP)—An American explorer, Dr. Harold E. Anthony, recently penetrated the remote and dangerous jungles of Central Brazil armed with nothing but a bow and arrow. He talked with fierce, primitive tribes never before visited by anyone and took pictures and made tape recordings of their stone age dances, ceremonials and completely naked existence. He had a tough job explaining what was to them the supernatural mystery of a compass.

Wicks' Statement

meantable that sometimes public officials have to seek the aid of persons incarcerated in prison. But it is not without precedent and would seem to bear the imprimatur of Governor Dewey himself. Fortunately, the occasions are rare.

Dewey Granted Favor

Perhaps the governor did not seek Luciano's favor—but he certainly granted him one—for aid rendered. In my case, I granted no favor to Fay—and that, essentially, is the only difference between the two cases.

There cannot be a double standard of conduct for public officials—one of the governor and another for the lieutenant governor. I do not claim the governor acted improperly in the Luciano case. He was undoubtedly faced with as difficult a problem there, as I was in the Fay case. Self interest was not a factor in either case. What was done by us in the respective cases was done because we each conscientiously believed that the public interest required it, however distasteful that action was to us personally.

If the members of the Executive Committee frown on my conduct, therefore, they should, in fairness, apply the same standard to the governor. In fairness, too, this should be done before next Tuesday.

Luciano Release

ate Crime Investigating Committee. Kefauver said he did not believe Luciano had contributed enough information to the U. S. military forces to justify his release.

Later in 1951, W. Kingsland Macy, a longtime foe of Dewey within the Republican party, urged the Kefauver committee to compel the governor to explain the commutation.

Now, acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wick, fighting to win vindication as Senate leader for his Sing Sing visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay, has come up with the assertion that his visits to Fay were no more improper than Dewey's release of Luciano.

There will be more on Luciano at the special session of the Legislature Tuesday. The Democratic minority leaders will press for a broadening of the scope of the session's agenda to include an investigation of the circumstances that brought about the release of Luciano.

Local Volunteers Of America Mails Campaign Letters

The local post, Volunteers of America, is mailing its annual fund appeal letters this week.

The letter, endorsed by city and county officials, calls attention to the importance of the local post in the life of the community and requests generous public response.

Signed by Mayor Newkirk, Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren, Ulster County District Attorney Howard C. St. John, Ulster County Sheriff Cluett Schantz and William F. Edelmuth, the letter lists the following services by the post last year: 55 children given day care while parents worked; 78 persons given emergency shelter including 1085 lodgings; 3286 meals; 22 given medical care and 17 transported; two women given maternal care; 236 received family assistance; 13 persons sent out on jobs; 859 articles good used clothing given to needy; 164 pieces household furnishings placed where needed; 21 children sent to camps for vacations.

"In addition to this, 109 aged persons were given holiday cheer baskets. At Christmas 46 baskets of food were given out, 23 children received new clothing and shoes and 76 attended the parties while 104 toys were given away. Sunday school and senior services were held for the unchurched.

"This only skims the work accomplished. Services have been rendered which could never be tabulated—such as the council and advice to bewildered and the giving of encouragement and thought. Wherever a need was brought to the attention of this group, a sincere effort was made to meet that need."

Arrangement Made For Testing 10,000 In Diabetes Drive

Free testing facilities to enable anyone to find out whether he has diabetes will be an important part of the local observance of Diabetes Week, November 15-21, a part of the national Diabetes Detection Drive.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk has proclaimed the week of November 15-21 as Diabetes Detection Week in the City of Kingston.

Dr. Bight, chairman of the Ulster County Medical Society, committee in charge, said arrangements are being made to test at least 10,000 persons.

"We invite every one to take advantage of this opportunity," he said. "Diabetes often goes undetected for a long time, before noticeable symptoms show up.

Yet it is highly important that the ailment be diagnosed early, so that proper medical controls can be established, by which future complications often can be warded off or made less severe."

Test Is Simple

"A simple urinalysis, which takes only a few moments time, is the basis of the testing. If it indicates a possibility of diabetes, then a further blood test may be recommended as a more conclusive basis of diagnosis."

Plans for the free testing program have been completed and during the week of November 15-21 the public will be offered the opportunity to be examined for possible evidence of diabetes by merely leaving a specimen of urine at their nearest drug store.

Medical authorities estimate there are nearly a million undetected diabetics in the United States. That figure is based on cases found in previous years' screening tests similar to the ones planned here. The number of undetected cases almost equals the number of diabetics who have been diagnosed and are getting medical care.

Dr. Bight pointed out that diabetes is one of the few chronic ailments for which there is a known control. Insulin when needed, diet and exercise constitute a three-sided means of control that in nearly all cases will enable the diabetic to live a normal life. But those controls can't be applied until the case is found, it is emphasized—hence the Diabetes Detection Drive.

The schedule for each school is as follows: Nov. 17, George Washington School, No. 4 and No. 6; Nov. 18, No. 7, St. Mary's and Kingston High School; Nov. 19, No. 3, No. 2, St. Peter's, Lutheran School and Myron J. Michael School; Nov. 20, St. Joseph's, Immaculate Conception and No. 5.

Red Schoolhouse Stays

New Canaan, Conn. (AP)—As long as Miss Mary J. Kelley wants it, there will be a little red schoolhouse in New Canaan. The board of education had talked about closing it. But so many protests rolled in that the board agreed to keep it open as long as Miss Kelley wanted to teach there. She has been its only teacher for 47 years. Her pupils, about 20 of them, range from kindergarten tots to fourth graders. Miss Kelley, 67 years old, started her own schooling there as a first grade pupil.

CONSTIPATED?

This note from John J. McKeever of Dalton, Mass., will interest you!

"I'd often get constipated when my everyday schedule was upset—such as by a long car ride.

"But I never did get the gentle, speedy relief I wanted until the day Sal Hepatica was recommended to me. Next time I woke up with that logy feeling and knew my day might be ruined by constipation, I took Sal Hepatica before breakfast. Within about an hour, I was back on my feet! Sal Hepatica really does the trick!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again... usually within an hour. Or, take it in the evening one half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

DECLINE OF AN EMPIRE

Perhaps the most significant event of modern times is the disintegration of the British Empire. This phenomenon has been obscured by the rise of the Soviet colossus and by the emergence of the United States as a leading world power. Yet, it may one day stand out as the most startling development of the 20th Century.

Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill once asserted that he would not preside over the dissolution of the British Empire. Yet he is now doing just that. India is an independent republic. Britain's hold on the Sudan is broken. Pakistan has decided, through its Constituent Assembly, to become a republic but to maintain its ties to the Commonwealth of Nations. This decision has been in the making ever since 1947, when India gained its independence and Pakistan became a separate state.

Britain no longer rules the Commonwealth of Nations. Instead, it offers leadership and cooperation. Where once Britain ruled large areas such as India with an iron hand, now it exercises absolute control only in small colonies like British Guiana. The dissolution of the British Empire has taken place in the last 50 years; a period crowded with tremendous events of which none have been more earth-shaking than Britain's loss of power.

THE SOUTHERN RECORD

The South used to be praised by itself and criticized by outsiders. Now the situation has changed. Southern writers are calling attention, in no uncertain terms, to the shortcomings of the section, while Northerners note its progress. This is brought out in a new book, "Southern Accent, From Uncle Remus to Oak Ridge," by William T. Polk, a North Carolina newspaperman.

While admitting the disquietingly large role played by some Southern demagogues, he observes truly:

"The recent record of the South in world affairs is reassuring. Lend-lease would have been beaten in Congress without Southern votes. When the first year of the first draft expired, four months before Pearl Harbor, Southern members of Congress insured its extension. When by one vote Congress decided not to send the soldiers home, the South turned the scale. Representatives of 12 Southern states cast 102 votes in favor of extending the draft and only six votes against it."

Polk thinks that the Middle West, and not the South, is the present happy hunting ground of the demagogue. Will Westerners agree?

LOOKING SKYWARDS

Not only prices are going up. Airplanes, too, are going higher and higher. Present indications are that airplanes will be flying at increasingly higher altitudes in the years to come. As a result, scientists are beginning to gather data about conditions far above the earth.

Until now, such data covered conditions to a height of 65,000 feet, or over 12 miles high. But a group of technologists representing the U. S. Air Force, Weather Bureau, Bureau of Standards and civilian aviation interests believe the present ceiling is too low. To prepare for the future, they think that data on conditions up to an altitude of 300,000 feet will be necessary.

Information on atmospheric conditions at that altitude should be interesting, to say the least. Suffice it to say, though, that not everyone looking upwards is studying heaven.

THE HISTORY OF LIBERTY

"Liberty has never come from the government. . . . The history of liberty is the history of the limitations of governmental power, not the increase of it."

That was said more than 40 years ago by one of the greatest students of government who ever sat in the White House—Woodrow Wilson. And the warning he issued is a hundred times more important and timely now than it was then.

The overriding lesson that modern history

CONVERTIBILITY

Los Angeles, Nov. 12—It used to be that a pound was stabilized at $4.86; a franc, 19 cents; a yen, 50 cents; a ruble, 50 cents and so on around the world. Money could be converted freely into any kind of currency, if you had the money and wanted the other kind. Trade therefore moved from one country to another, paying customs duties in such places as imposed it.

Then, during and after World War I, many moneys went bad and their value became uncertain. It is true that speculators played exchange, or arbitrage, as it was called, and some made fortunes, but trade generally suffers from bad money because when one places an order in a foreign country, he can never be sure what it will cost him in his own money and if he can get paid.

When a currency goes down, a government usually blocks it, by which is meant that it refuses to allow it to leave the country. The reason is that the more of it that goes out, the cheaper it gets on international markets. So the man who earns money in a foreign country is asked to spend it there. He is permitted to export a product but not cash. He can bring in American dollars, but he cannot take out any American dollars or local currency.

Just before World War II, I knew of an American company that exported a steel product to Germany. It got paid in marks but could not take the marks out of Germany or convert those marks into American dollars. So, this company went into business of exporting Hartz Mountain canaries to the United States. Those canaries were then sold to American department stores and pet shops and in that way the American company got paid for its product.

The American motion picture industry has to do that nowadays. They sell American-made pictures all over the world, but in some countries, they cannot take their money out. So they make pictures in those countries, employing local help, which means that a lot of American artists and workers in Hollywood are out of work. Some of those pictures are shown in this country, if possible.

There is always a great excitement about cutting down tariffs in the United States to get trade moving, but that is only one of the impediments to a free market. A greater one is the inability freely to convert one currency into another.

During the next few years, we shall be hearing about convertibility because that is now being discussed, somewhat quietly, among nations. The politicians are afraid of it because it is a deflationary movement in an inflationary period as any tendency to stabilize money is.

Also, as the gold standard has generally been abandoned, no common denominator exists except the American dollar, which is based on nothing but confidence. In two countries, Switzerland and Canada, the American dollar has been depreciated. It would be very difficult to put all currencies on a gold standard, because most countries do not have the American dollars to buy gold.

So what is proposed is that an International Stabilization Fund be established upon which the currencies of those countries that would join the fund would be made convertible. I have heard it discussed that the United States put up somewhere between two and five billion dollars, other countries putting up smaller amounts as their ability would permit.

It is this Stabilization Fund that frightens our politicians because it will annoy our people. Although we have become accustomed to talking in billions and putting up billions for this and that, money is such a complicated subject and its workings are so little understood that it is generally expected that the people would resist the proposal.

Actually, anything that is done to make currencies convertible and stable is a move in the right direction. As long as the world is full of bad money, prices must be abnormally high and international trade out of balance. The United States has been making up other countries' deficits by exporting between five and seven billion dollars a year since the end of World War II in the form of ECA, European Military Aid and Point Four because of the economic dislocations arising from bad money. An International Stabilization Fund, making currencies convertible, might help to reduce our contributions to other countries. (Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SAVING THE LIFE OF HEART PATIENT

For many years physicians, including heart specialists, have been putting patients with a coronary thrombosis to bed for a matter of four to six weeks, after giving a quarter-grain morphine hypodermic injection to ease the pain and keep patient quiet. The idea was that immediate bed rest gave the heart its best chance to get needed rest. Later, armchair rest and some exercise are permitted to help the circulation.

In "Circulation," New York city, Drs. A. Gootnick and F. H. Knox state that approximately half the patients with severe shock complicating myocardial infarction (coronary thrombosis) can be saved by active treatment with vasopressor drugs, blood and plasma. "The duration of shock without treatment is important. Recovery is extremely rare when profound circulatory failure has persisted for a number of hours. Grave changes and damage occur when the injured heart undergoes a period of greatly reduced blood flow. Treatment designed to maintain the circulation at a level compatible with life will limit or prevent progressive deterioration of the heart muscle and will enable a heart that is capable of recovery to resume adequate functioning."

Thirty-two patients, whose shock was so profound at the beginning of treatment that no hope of revival was justified, were given active treatment with a combination of blood, plasma, and a vasopressor drug: 14 recovered, showing that however severe their shock, patients with acute coronary thrombosis have a chance for life. The longer the patient remains alive under treatment, the greater his chances of recovery become. "Some of the patients in this series recovered after long periods of deep shock; one did not definitely emerge from shock until the end of 48 hours of treatment."

"Recovery from circulatory depression in the 14 survivors was associated with the attainment of a pulse pressure of at least 25 mm. of mercury, that is the degrees of blood pressure between the systolic and the diastolic pressure. The ideal pulse pressure is about 40 mm."

"Treatment should be continued under the close attention of physicians until the emergency is over; nurses cannot be given the responsibility of making the many decisions required by the fluctuating condition of the patient."

The point here is that when deep shock accompanies the attack of coronary thrombosis, the circulation of blood must be maintained by the treatment outlined above. There are, of course, many cases of coronary thrombosis where complete rest and morphine are considered the best treatment.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — It isn't the work load that gets Washington bureaucrats down. It's the compulsory social racket. Take the case of Secretary of State and Mrs. John Foster Dulles.

After a 10-day grind that included entertaining the King and Queen of Greece and attending the President's silk-hat and white-tie dinner for the cabinet at the White House, Secretary and Mrs. Dulles had to take to the woods—literally.

They sneaked off for a week at their 1000-acre retreat on an island in Lake Ontario. The place is so remote that they have to carry in firewood to heat it and they cook by oil-lamp light on a stove fueled by bottled gas, their only modern convenience.

What! You Again?

Since Washington protocol demands that officials and their wives be seated at formal dinners according to their rank, a severe test of conversational ability has been developed.

More or less the same people get invited to the important functions. This means that the same people have to sit beside each other for dinner after dinner. They either get to know each other awfully well, or they become terribly bored.

Ike and Protocol

It's reported on good authority that when President Eisenhower gave his informal stag luncheon and breakfasts for members of Congress last winter and spring, he was considerably irked by the seating protocol.

It meant that a bunch of lawmakers who had to sit next to each other on Capitol Hill were forced to sit in the same order even when they were supposed to be relaxing.

Warren Moves

Chief Justice of the United States Earl Warren has finally moved out of his downtown hotel to bachelor quarters in northwest

Washington. Mrs. Warren is closing up their home in California, preparatory to moving east for good. The Warrens' 28th wedding anniversary not long ago had to be celebrated by telephone.

Speed Demons

Memo to the U. S. Congress: Sofia, Bulgaria, radio reports that the eighth ordinary session of the Bulgarian National Assembly recently met in regular session. According to the monitored broadcast, 54 laws and 194 decrees were passed at this session. It lasted one day.

Gagster at Work

Washington gags: The new slogan of the power trust is said to be, "McKay while the sun shines."

Baseball magnates who have been trying for years to break up the New York Yankees' farm system are being advised: "Turn the job over to Benson."

Truce Violations

Ambassador You Chan Yang, just returned from his native Korea, has brought back reports that the Communists are now shipping crates of aircraft into North Korea by rail. Right after the cease-fire agreement was signed, U. S. radar picked up flights of new Russian aircraft into North Korea, in violation of the armistice terms. Shipping the planes in by rail makes radar detection impossible.

Nazi Generals in Egypt

German World War 2 generals have been hired by Egypt to build up and train its new armed forces. The United States was at first invited to send in its military experts to Egypt for this job. But this government had to decline for fear of offending the British.

The Germans' first job in Egypt

is to build up self-confidence and morale of the unequipped troops.

Painting Problems

The present fad for "Do-It-Yourself" home repairs has resulted in a new business market with a sales potential of $75 a year for every house in the United States. Of this amount, $60 is spent for lumber, according to reports made at the Washington meeting of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Assn.

One problem which the lumbermen are investigating is how to reduce the costs of painting woodwork. To avoid this cost, and high lumber costs, many homebuilders are turning to brick and other materials.

Detail painting around doors and windows accounts for 60 per cent of house painting costs. Licking this problem, the lumbermen reported, would help them recapture part of the market now lost to metal doors and window sashes.

According to the Census Bureau, there are 18,272,000 persons in the United States 60 years of age or older.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 12—Apropos of the Harry Dexter White revelations by Attorney General Herbert Brownell, I present the case of Robert Wohlforth. Wohlforth, who was secretary to the Nye and La Follette committees of the Senate when they were loaded with Communists, has been suspended from the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice in New York since December, 1952. Wohlforth is a West Pointer of the class of 1927. He served a short time as an officer of the 18th Infantry and after his resignation from the army, wrote a book described by Whittaker Chambers in his autobiography "Witness," as "a fictional attack on West Point, popular in leftist circles in the 1930's."

The title of Wohlforth's book was "Tin Soldiers." He insists that many constructive criticisms of West Point contained therein have been adopted.

Dr. J. B. Matthews, the most informative apostate in a large group of penitents from the Communist front, says he often met Wohlforth around the offices of the Committee of Militarism in Education, which was "only a little bit Red," however. Matthews says the committee's purpose was to hold up to scorn ROTC and military training as infiltration of militarists and reactionaries into education. This has been the Communist line except during the period when the United States was fighting to save Russia from her historic enemies, but it is not exclusively their line. Wohlforth says he never joined this committee.

Wohlforth's boss at the anti-trust division, Richard B. O'Donnell, refused to say any more about his status than "he is not with us."

"I am afraid this sounds pretty stuffy," Mr. O'Donnell said, "but that is all I can tell you about it. He hasn't been around since last December. The rule of silence is imposed on me by Le Roy McCaulley, the security officer of the anti-trust division in Washington."

Wohlforth himself went further. He said he had been under "charges" since 1948 and had been cleared "on loyalty" but that "security is still held against me." He seems extremely nervous over the cloud on his name and the uncertainty after five years of suspicion and 11 months of idleness without pay. He said he had had a lot of "unfortunate associations," including professional relations in the Senate committees with Alger Hiss, John Abt and Charles Krivitsky, alias Kramer, named in sworn testimony by Elizabeth Bentley and others, as Soviet agents, and in the anti-trust division with Judith Coplon, whose convictions were reversed by a legalistic fluke. The evidence against her was felt unimpaired except on the ground that some of it had been obtained by the

Truman's Refusal Described as Untenable, Since U. S. Security Is Involved

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 13—Former President Truman has placed himself in an awkward, if not untenable, position before the public by his refusal to comply with a subpoena from the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Mr. Truman says he cannot be compelled by law to testify about any events that happened while he held the presidential office, but recently he contracted with "Life" magazine for a price of reportedly around $600,000 to write about events which will include the period of his service in the White House.

Shall the American people be denied by reason of an arbitrary refusal by a private citizen to give information affecting vitally the security of the nation—that is, about the lax procedures that have prevented prompt detection of security risks in their government? Shall the reason given by Mr. Truman to the Congress that a former President cannot be compelled to testify about public matters be accepted as a precedent now? For, if so, then every former official can plead the same excuse hereafter.

Mr. Truman was paid a high salary by the people of the United States, and what he did while in office constitutes information belonging to the people. There has been a quibble as to whether it would have been better to "invite" Mr. Truman as a matter of "courtesy" rather than to summon him by subpoena, but the reply given formally to the House Committee now indicates that Mr. Truman refuses either voluntarily or as a result of subpoena to give any information which the Congress seeks.

It is a well-established principle of constitutional law that, once a witness does give a partial answer and opens up the subject matter, he can be required to answer further or be adjudged in contempt. By analogy, Mr. Truman has opened up the subject matter by a statement in the press declaring that when he found out that Harry Dexter White was "disloyal," he "fired" him.

The Congress has a right to have those statements made under oath and to ask that the record be supplied which shows that, even after the September 8, 1947, White was "forced," nothing in the laudatory letter written by the former President when White terminated his employment indicates it.

The Congress and the American people have a right to know what took place at the conference which the then secretary of state, James F. Byrnes, held with Mr. Truman on February 6, 1946, when Mr. Byrnes urged that White's commission for his new post be held up. Who were the persons present at the meeting, and why didn't the President act later as he had seemed to be willing to act on the Byrnes suggestion?

The explanation that Mr. Truman had been advised, as a matter of legal procedure, that, once an appointment had been confirmed by the Senate, he was in duty bound to issue the commission seems puzzling in view of the action that Mr. Truman himself took through the late Secretary Matthews of the Navy, who contended before the Tydings Committee in 1951 that the removal in October 1950 of Admiral Denfeld, chief of naval operations, was legal because the commission signed by Mr. Truman had not actually been authorized to be delivered to him and had gotten to Denfeld in an unauthorized manner. The confirmation by the Senate took place several weeks before.

Mr. Truman's loyalty or fidelity to his country is not an issue and has never been, despite efforts of Truman followers here to confuse the public by claiming such an implication was made by Attorney General Brownell. It was laxity in procedure alone to which Mr. Brownell called attention.

Incidentally, Lamar Caudle, former assistant attorney general in the criminal division of the Department of Justice under the Truman administration, now has testified that on October 13, 1946, he disclosed to the Senate Internal Security Committee the existence of the so-called "second" FBI memorandum about Harry Dexter White dated Feb. 4, 1946. He did so in answer to a question by a committee investigator who evidently had heard about it.

So, Mr. Brownell, another of the same category, but only at the covered in his speech of last Friday several weeks earlier—indeed, during the campaign itself if he were seeking political advantage. The fact that he did not speak until all the special campaigns for Congress were about over is a sign that he did not, as the Democrats now claim, speak for political purpose in his "timing."

Mr. Truman had an excellent opportunity to put his case before the people by declining to accept a subpoena but offering to appear voluntarily with subpoena. Whichever way the testimony is to be obtained is not important, for it seems doubtful that the Democrats will wish to permit their former leader to take the side of concealment and suppression as against full publicity of the facts in his possession. (Reproduction Rights Reserved) quik of Connecticut law long before the trial, aroused strong feeling against Draper and Adler, particularly in the Legion. They have been under wide boycott ever since.

Wohlforth also "associated" with George Seldes, another of the same category, but only at cocktail parties. His social preference might be surmised from the presence of Draper and Seldes, but Wohlforth, for all his experience among some of the most sinister proven traitors in the grand conspiracy, insists that in all instances his heart was pure.

There has been strife among the employees of the anti-trust division in New York over the persecution, possibly imaginary or exaggerated, of anti-Reds on the staff. One anti-Red was killed when he jumped or fell or was thrown from a sixth-floor height and one of his pro-American friends has expressed suspicions. Of course, there is no suggestion that Wohlforth threw the man out the window.

The La Follette Committee, which Wohlforth served as secretary, with Abt and Kramer running the show, was a flagrant Communist exploit whereby Soviet agents used the Senate power of subpoena to acquire masses of confidential records of many of the most important American business firms. Senator Bob La Follette, Jr., finally killed himself. He had been repudiated and discredited in favor of Joe McCarthy and all that Joe McCarthy symbolizes by contrast with the record of the La Follette Committee. The earlier Nye Committee also was a Red ruse with Hiss as counsel and Wohlforth as secretary.

Congressman Martin Dies has charged that Wohlforth tried to plant Communist agents on him as investigators of un-American activities when he was chairman of the old special committee. He wrote that he spotted these candidates and rejected them. Wohlforth, however, insists that he did not know they were Reds and that they were Dies as an act of cooperation when the Dies Committee, with an appropriation of only $25,000, was advised by the Roosevelt administration to borrow confidential investigators from other committees. ## Teachers Request Salaries Be Placed On Higher Base

A study of the salary schedule of local teachers "with a view toward raising it to give all teachers a professional salary" is planned by Kingston Teachers Federation 781, American Federation of Labor, it was announced today by President Richard Mason.

"Teachers salaries are shockingly inadequate," Mason said. "They have not kept up with the ever rising cost of living index nor have they come close to matching the earnings of members of other occupations and professions. Most teachers are experiencing severe economic distress."

Committees Appointed

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the local federation the following committees were appointed in order to facilitate the study: Public relations control, emergency fund raising, salary schedule revision, speakers and membership.

Public relations control—Victor Mahoney, chairman; Margaret Mullen, Martha Barnett, Agnes Smith, Adeline De Carlo, Teresa Lloyd, Anne Weisman, Althea Odell, Alvin Most, Arthur Kurtzacker, Michael Aronica, Regina Swarthout and Carolyn Hearn.

Emergency fund raising: Winifred O'Neil, chairman; Helen Partlan, Laura Terpening, Ray Klein, Miriam Halloran, Elsie Phillips, Anne Duffy, Sadie Feldman, Elizabeth Patchell, Rose Mellert and Elizabeth Leonard.

Revision Committee

Salary schedule revision: Robert Tucker, chairman; Richard Whiston, Boyd Miller, Watson Bailey, Ray Brown, Alexander Banyo, Lee Partlan, Margaret Schuetz, Zella Boyce, Harriet Jones and Isabel Flynn. Veterans affairs sub-committee: Guido Zambarnardi, Ray Gilkey, Bill Hurley and John Gilligan.

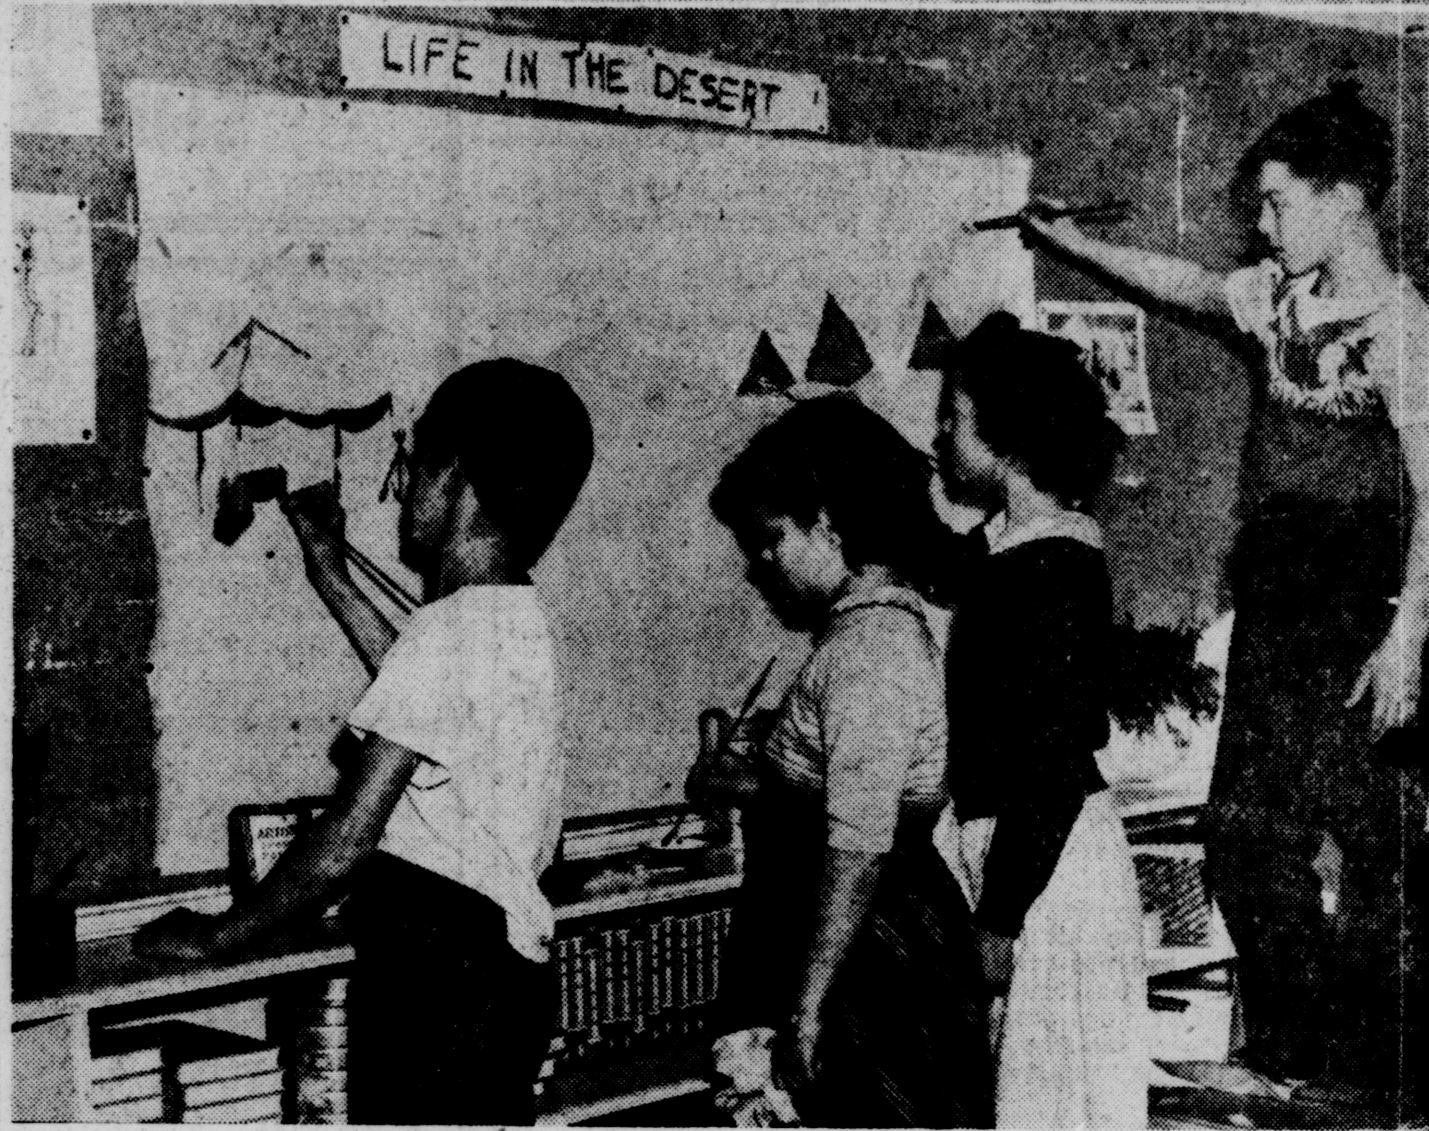

Speakers: Harry Streifer, chairman; Ann McNelis, Leo Doheny and Richard Mason.

Collections Protested

Waterbury, Conn. (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce wants Waterbury policemen and firemen to stop soliciting contributions for community drives while they are in uniform. The practice, said the chamber in a protest to the city police and fire boards, "entails a traffic hazard as well as antagonizing the public."

Offender's Traffic School

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 12—My daily Bible reading recently was the Forty-first Chapter of Genesis. This tells the story of Joseph and the Seven Lean Years of famine following the Seven Fat Years of prosperity. This story especially interests me because during the past summer I had been reading Breasted's History of Egypt, a complete history of the world's most enduring nation.

The remarkable feature about Joseph's business cycle is that the story has continued to be told by word of mouth, written by script, and finally printed, over a period of about 36 hundred years. Certainly, if these cycles had not continued from generation to generation this story of Joseph's cycles would have dropped from the Hebrew history as so many other folklore stories did. Remember that for 2,000 years this story passed only by word of mouth; for 1,000 years it passed only by handwritten script; and only during the last 500 years has it passed by printed type.

Naturally, the story interests me in view of my fundamental belief in Sir Isaac Newton's Law of Action and Reaction. Newton published this Law in 1689. Most scientists and economists have recognized it from that day to the present. In short, in the business realm this means that whenever "prosperity" becomes abnormally high, either fundamental conditions must improve to justify this high prosperity or else there must follow a depression period approximately equal in area to compensate. The difficulty with the Law is that no way has yet been discovered to forecast the length or area of this prosperity period. We all know that labor leaders, installment-selling and pressure groups, cannot keep up their present tactics forever. (Trees do not grow to the skies.) But how long they can keep them up, no one now knows.

Great Events Ahead

There are factors which could prolong the present era of prosperity. One of these—the spending of billions to protect our large cities against enemy bombs—I have often forecast in this column. I believe my friend, Val Peterson, the National Civil Defense Administrator, will secure the necessary appropriations which could offset any decline in military expenditures. Another factor, which businesses should watch, is the conflict between Great Britain and the United States regarding the opening up of China and Far Eastern trade. I believe that the British will be successful and win their argument. They know far more about foreign trade than we do and have much more at stake. If China and the Far East are opened to trade, this could do much to lengthen prosperity.

I recently heard an interesting lecture on advertising, showing its tremendous growth and its improved pulling qualities. The best paid psychologists, statisticians, and artists are employed today in getting people to buy. The magnificent color advertising, which has recently come into development, may do for retail trade what the self-starter did for the automobile industry. Sales campaigns, sales conventions, and the training of salesmen have been developed to a point never known before. The possibilities of radio and television advertising are still in their infancy. The newspapers a few days ago reported that fifty million people watched television to hear LaRosa (whoever he may be)—probably less than half that number was the most who ever heard President Eisenhower! Lucky was the LaRosa sponsor.

Middle of the Road

These are times when every businessman, in every community, should guard against being too dogmatic and thinking he knows just what is going to happen. The man who is a great optimist, or a great pessimist, is running a great risk. It is well to keep out of embarrassing debt; but otherwise every businessman should go ahead about as usual for the next few months. We may have a depression in 1954; but don't be too sure about it. 1954 may be a good year; but I'll discuss this in my Annual Outlook.

The bidding of today's hand is quite instructive, in a backhanded sort of way. North's raise to two hearts, for example, is unorthodox but understandable. Nobody likes to raise with only two trumps, but North cannot afford to bid clubs at the level of three and must therefore either raise the hearts or pass altogether.

West's double of four hearts is a good example of a bad double. Just imagine all the various hands that East might have for his bid of two spades. Then imagine that East is playing the hand at four spades.

Since South must have the ace of hearts because of the bidding, East will not lose more than one trick. East almost surely has a spade suit that will lose no more than one trick. West's singleton club assures the loss of no more than one club trick.

Hence a maximum of three tricks will be lost outside of diamonds; and a game at spades will depend, at worst, on a diamond finesse.

While you're at it, consider the defensive value of all these hands. You will probably take a heart and one or two diamonds. The rest is a tossup. When you can beat four hearts, your cards are usually good enough to make four spades. When you can't beat four hearts, you certainly don't want to be doubling.

When today's hand was actually played, the East-West cards were good enough to make four spades. To make matters worse, a slip in the defense allowed South to make four hearts doubled. A very unsatisfactory business from the East-West point of view.

West opened his singleton club, dummy played the queen, and East made the fatal blunder of covering with the king. The lead was obviously a singleton, and East couldn't possibly gain anything by playing the king. "Third hand high" is a good rule, but not when your play obviously sets up a whole suit for declarer.

South won with the ace of clubs and led a low trump towards dummy. West ducked, and dummy's jack won. South then took the ace of hearts and gave West his trump trick. Now West couldn't stop declarer from taking 11 tricks.

If East had played a low club at the first trick, South would have lost a trump and three diamonds, and either a second trump or the king of clubs. He would have been set two tricks. So actually West had one consolation: his bidding was not as bad as his partner's play.

Carves Personal Pipes

Livingston, Mont. (AP)—M. J. (Blackie) Felsten, a navy veteran whose ships have touched almost every port in the world, carves personalized pipes—to resemble the faces of famous people. He sells a few pipes at Christmas time, but the remainder of his 250 to 300 a year output is given away to friends, or to the famous people they resemble. "I watch for pictures of celebrities who smoke pipes," he explains. He sends the completed pipe to the celebrity, and asks only one of the person's old pipes in return. No one has yet declined the exchange. Felsten pipes are owned by such well known pipe smokers as J. Edgar Hoover, Bing Crosby, Dan Thornton, of Colorado, Art Baker, Bennett Cerf and Glen McCarthy.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

A couple of weeks ago I went up to Boston to see Kismet, the new musical starring Alfred Drake. As the crowd came out during intermission, I asked the house manager if there were any celebrities in the audience.

He pointed out a couple of Saltonstalls, a pair of Pecks and a stray Aldrich. Then, as a stylish looking couple passed us, he said, "Remind me to tell you about them when the show is over. There may be a column in it for you."

"You'd better not use their real names," he said later that night over a cup of coffee. That is, if you figure on ever coming back to Boston.

"All right," I said. "I'll call them the Allenbys. That sounds like Back Bay."

"There's an amusing story behind their marriage," said the manager. "The wife was born Eunice Murphy, and her dad was a bricklayer. The father of the Allenby boy, however, not only rates with the Cabots and Lowells—he owns the bank where they keep their money. Nevertheless, old man Allenby practically forced his son to marry the bricklayer's daughter."

As the manager told it, about a year ago George Allenby, Jr., went out to a suburb to see how the work was going on a low-cost housing project his father was interested in. There he ran into Eunice who was waiting to drive her father home and, to make a short story shorter, he fell head over custom-built heels in love with her.

His problem, of course, was to get his father's consent to the marriage. "The boy finally hit on a notion—a plot turn he had once seen in a French movie."

From one of his friends he got the telephone number of a good-looking chick who wasn't too particular how she made an easy dollar. He went to see her, told her his problem, and offered her a substantial piece of money to help him.

Then he went around to the bank to see his father. "I need your advice," he said. "I've been running around with a couple of girls and, believe it or not, I'm stuck on both of them. The trouble is, I don't know which one would make me a better wife."

"Let me meet both of them," said his father, "and then we can talk about it."

That night George took his dad to the flat where the good-looking chick lived, and the old boy almost jumped out of his dignity when he saw her flashy make-up and overgenerous chest.

"You'd be crazy to—" said Senior when they got to the street. "Why, she's nothing but—well, I certainly don't think you should."

Next night, George invited Eunice to have dinner at the Copely and brought along his father. The girl, not knowing what it was all about, was, to coin a phrase, her own sweet self, and Senior was so taken by the contrast between the bricklayer's charming daughter and the masquerade tootsie that he darn near gave his son to Eunice on the spot.

A couple of weeks after the wedding George told his wife what he had done. "Hope you aren't sore," he said. "Not at all," said Eunice. "Actually, I suppose, I owe my marriage to this girl, and if you'll give me her address I'll figure out some way to make it up to her."

The very next afternoon, George's wife dropped in to see the chick at her flat.

"My husband told me what you did," she said, "and I'd like you to know how much I appreciate it. I thought—that is if you wouldn't be offended—perhaps a little check—"

"You got it all wrong, honey," said the cheery lass. "It's me what's beholdin' to you. If George hadn't looked me up, I'd never have made the acquaintance of a very generous boy friend."

She pointed to a silver frame on her dressing table.

It held a photograph of Allenby Senior.

Federal Ruling On TV Coverage Pleases NFL

Philadelphia, Nov. 13 (AP)—A ruling by a federal judge that the National Football League legally can restrict television coverage of its games left the professional sports world in a state of happy confusion today.

Both football and baseball circles appeared gratified over the first portion of a four-part decision yesterday by U. S. District Judge Allan K. Grim.

Judge Grim—acting two days after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled professional baseball is a sport and therefore not subject to the nation's anti-trust laws—held that the NFL has the right to ban television of league games into other league cities when home teams are playing.

Bell Happy
NFL Commissioner Bert Bell hailed the ruling and Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, said "it is a fine ruling for football."

However, neither Bell nor Frick would comment on the effects on each other's domain of the remaining three parts of Judge Grim's ruling.

The federal jurist termed "illegal" three NFL rules which:

1. Restricted telecasts of games into league cities when the home team is playing out of town.

2. Restricted radio broadcasts of NFL games.

3. Permitted the NFL commissioner to veto radio and TV contracts.

Bell said he felt football had "won the most important part of its case" in being given the legal right to impose TV blackout curtains around home games.

Players Will Present

Beauty and the Beast

New Paltz, Nov. 13—A magic window, a magic ring, a magic rosebush—a prince cursed with the head of a beast, a beautiful young girl who agrees to marry him—and the age-old fairy tale of Beauty and the Beast comes to life on the stage at State University Teachers College Nov. 20 and 21.

The production, staged by the New Paltz Players and Delta Psi, Omega, dramatic groups at the college, is the fourth annual children's theatre presentation in this area. Two children's matinee performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday at 2:30 p. m. in the college auditorium. Adults are invited to attend an evening performance Friday at 8:30 p. m.

Bernice DeLessio, freshman from Merrick, L. I., is cast in the role of Beauty; Gary LeFebvre, freshman from Lake Placid, will play opposite her as the Beast. Other cast members include Ann Vass, Charles Hardaker, Evelyn Kluger, Allen Boucher, Joseph Graziano, Josephine Moore and Adrienne Cooper.

Sets and costumes for the production are being designed by students in the art education program under the direction of Alfred P. Maurice. In charge of the entire production is Mrs. Vera R. Irvin, director of dramatics at the college.

Paltz Artist Series

Schedules Met Tenor

New Paltz, Nov. 13—Richard Tucker, considered by many to be the greatest tenor singing in the world today, will appear in concert on the New Paltz Artist Series Monday, Nov. 23.

The program will open at 8:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the State University Teachers College. Single admission tickets are now available at the College Book Store, telephone New Paltz 8233.

Tucker, familiar to all devotees of the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts, may be heard on the broadcast Saturday afternoon, November 21, in Verdi's opera, La Forza del Destino. A recitative and aria from this opera will be included in his New Paltz program. Other operatic selections on the program include works by Handel, Mozart, Torelli and Durante.

In a lighter vein, Tucker will offer Apres un Reve by Faure, Madrigal by Fourdras, Les Temps des Lilas by Chausson, Flower Song from Carmen by Bizet and several folk songs. He will be assisted at the piano by Joseph Garnett.

Since his phenomenal debut at the Metropolitan Opera House in 1945, Richard Tucker has surpassed himself in subsequent appearances at the Metropolitan, in coast-to-coast concert tours, and in Italy where he won the enthusiastic acclaim of the Italian public. Toscanini, in the spring of 1949, chose him to sing the role of Radames in the now historic broadcasts of Aida with the NBC Symphony. He appeared last season in the Metropolitan Opera's two new productions of Rigoletto and Così Fan Tutti (staged by Alfred Lunt), as well as in the second-season re-staging of Cavalleria Rusticana.

Advisory Committee Checks School Plans

New Paltz, Nov. 13—The Citizens Advisory Committee met with the board of education on Friday to see preliminary plans drawn by architects for the proposed elementary school. The firm of Reiser, Urbahn, Brayton & Burrows has been awarded the contract. Jedd Reiser was at the high school working in the guidance room while studying the needs of the school and the site. Teachers were all interviewed by him to see what suggestions and ideas they had and what they felt their needs were.

The board met with Reiser first on Friday evening, Nov. 6, and while they were meeting, Mrs. John Jacobson was meeting with the new members of the enlarged Citizens Advisory Committee. At 9 p. m., the groups met jointly and Reiser explained tentative plans. This was the evening of the storm and many committee members were unable to attend.

Reiser has taken the plans to New York where estimates will be made. When he has the estimates ready there will be another meeting and it is hoped that the full committee will be able to attend. At a later time a public meeting will be held for all to be able to see the plans and different materials.

The committee was enlarged to include a representative group of the community. The purpose of the committee is two-fold, to take questions to the school board from the community and to give information to the community as plans progress. The committee will also help the school board and architect with suggestions, etc.

Members of the first advisory committee are Mrs. John Jacobson, Mrs. Clifford Hoppenstedt, Mrs. Gordon Pine, Mrs. Tom McKinney, Joseph Foley, Melvin Carroll, Dr. Harold Elsbree, David Corwin, Benjamin Matteson, Herman Glanz, John Fall, Mrs. William Jay and Art Kurtz. Members added to the committee are Mrs. Robert Swain, Miss Ruth E. ## Liquor Can't Be Sold On State Reservations

Albany, Nov. 13 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein says liquor licenses may not be granted to premises on Indian reservations for the sale of intoxicants.

Goldstein said yesterday, in an opinion requested by the State Liquor Authority, that there was no state law forbidding the sale of alcoholic beverages to Indians.

Such a ban was in effect until 1920, he said, but was not included when an alcoholic beverage control law was enacted then.

In enacting a new law in 1934, Goldstein said, the Legislature did not intend to permit licensing premises of Indian reservations.

UNEXPECTED VISITORS

A wife tells me: "Last evening my husband was delayed at the office and as a result we had a rather late dinner. While we were eating, unexpected visitors arrived. I asked them to please wait in the living room while we finished dinner. When I got back to the table, my husband was quite put out with me and said that I was very discourteous to our guests for not asking them to join us. Will you please tell me if I was rude?"

If they were old friends; or in any case, if you had a sufficient amount of food to share it liberally, then your husband's suggestion would have been pleasing. But if they were acquaintances and your menu not overplentiful, bringing them in would have been embarrassing rather than helpful. The not-too-pleasing answer is that you have eaten as quickly as possible and joined them.

The Wedding of Twins

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and I (we are twins) are planning a double wedding this winter and am puzzled as to the correct wording of the wedding invitations. Will you please give us the correct form?

Answer: Mr. and Mrs. John Brown requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughters Jane Ellen to Mr. Henry Grey and Joan Anne to Mr. James Green, etc. (Put the girls' names in the order that they are usually spoken of).

Belated Anniversary Celebration

Dear Mrs. Post: My parents will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, and I would like to give a party for them. However, my brother, who is in the army, will not be able to be home at that time. Would it be proper to give this party several months later when he will be home? I'm sure mother and dad would be a lot happier if he were there.

Answer: While very unusual not to have it on the day, it would surely be understood if they choose to wait.

What does the well-dressed businesswoman wear? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but readers wishing an answer to the above question will find it in leaflet E-35, "The Well-Dressed Woman." Fashion Show

November 11, 1953
Editor, The Freeman:

It was with great interest that I recently read in your paper that the Wonderly Company was bringing to Kingston, on Thursday, November 19, Betty Campbell and her famous models, for a fashion show.

The proceeds from this fine affair are being donated entirely to the Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center here in Kingston.

I think this is a wonderful gesture on the part of the Wonderly Company, particularly when you consider the expense involved in bringing to Kingston a show of this caliber, which in spite of its expense would still be financially profitable to the Wonderly Company if they kept for themselves the small admission price of $5.50.

I have been down to our local Treatment Center and am personally familiar with the fine work done at the Center, by Mrs. Peck and her staff. I can not think of a more worthy or deserving cause than this, for the health and welfare of our Ulster county children.

This civic venture, on the part of the Wonderly Company deserves our full support and those who support it will be aiding a worthwhile cause and enjoying a wonderful evening at the Municipal Auditorium at the same time.

Very truly yours,
HUBERT A. RICHTER

Unwatch Dog

Crescent Beach, S. C. (AP) — A burglar broke into Pope Hamilton's home here and Police Officer J. W. Perrin, who doubles as mayor, organized a searching party. He asked whether anybody in the crowd had a bloodhound. "Sure," someone replied, and produced a hound that soon slipped away from the posse. They found the dog peacefully snoozing under a myrtle bush. Then it developed that it was Hamilton's dog. So Perrin asked where the dog was during the burglary. "Asleep under the house, I reckon," said Hamilton.

Statistic Is Correct

Omaha (AP)—A Western Union operator repeated the message to the sender: "It's a boy. Seventeen pounds. Seven months." The operator couldn't hide the incredulity in his voice. "Was that 7 pounds or 17 sir?" he asked. "Seventeen," the sender replied promptly, and added with a chuckle: "I don't know why but people asked the same question three years ago when we adopted the other baby."

The Mature Parent

This Wise Father Protected
His Son's Idea of Manliness

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

For Joe's third birthday, his grandmother gave him a toy rabbit named Peter.

This name was inevitable, since the rabbit bore a close likeness to the storybook Peter who offended Mr. McGregor. He wore a duplicate of the famous blue coat with brass buttons. His color was pale tan.

So Joe transferred the affectionate sympathy that had been aroused in him by the fictional Peter's troubles to his tangible one. Because of this emotional appeal, Joe's rabbit became his favorite bed companion. And as his seams were well stitched, he stayed in that role after Joe had entered kindergarten.

One day, Joe was entertaining a six-year-old guest. To the guest's astonishment, he discovered that the saw which had come in Joe's new junior-size tool chest really worked. He became very jealous of the tool chest. So he sought a way to destroy its importance to him by destroying the importance of its owner.

The sight of Peter Rabbit propped against Joe's pillow in his worn blue jacket was just what he needed. "Do you still sleep with that thing?" he demanded. Then he sneered: "Gee, what I know on you, you mommy's baby ass."

That night Joe shoved Peter from his bed so roughly that his father asked him why.

After he'd been told, he picked up Peter. "O.K." he said. "But it doesn't make you a baby to love something, you know. Am I a sissy to let you get into bed with me on Sunday mornings? Am I a sissy to take sister on my lap and kiss mother? I am not. But I sure would be one if I let anyone scare me into pretending I didn't love people I love. Think it over, son. You've loved Peter a long time."

So Joe restored Peter to his place in his affection. As he gradually found other objects for it, he outgrew his need for Peter's companionship.

Today he's a father himself—a loved one. When he told me I could tell this story about Peter, he said, "What dad did was to protect his kid's idea of manliness. If he hadn't done it, I suppose I'd have gone on thinking I had to be ashamed of wanting or showing affection. That would have been hard on Ethel and the youngsters. As it is, we're a pretty happy bunch."

"People, especially men," writes psychoanalyst Erich Fromm, "feel uncomfortable when they show tenderness . . . The result is that men miss tenderness and as a substitute for it, feel that they ought to be admired and their self-esteem validated." I hope we'll be as alert as Joe's father to put straight these misleading ideas of manliness that are so often suggested to little boys. It's pretty important that they know that the real sissies are men who are afraid of love.

Child Will Receive Scholarship Benefit From DAR Card Party

MISS GLORIA PICKENS

Plans have now been completed by the Approved Schools Committee of Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, for the annual card party given to raise funds for the scholarship provided by the local Chapter at Tamassee DAR School.

The party will be held at the Chapter House on Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 7:30 p. m. Using Pennsylvania Dutch designs as a decorative theme, Miss Carolyn D. Newkirk and Mrs. Roger G. Billings are preparing attractive tables. Mrs. Conrad J. Gross is in charge of the food booth. Mrs. Ruth K. Friedell and Miss Marion E. Schwenk make up the publicity committee, while refreshments are being planned by Mrs. Albert Roosa, Mrs. William Lawrence, Mrs. Alfred W. Harder, Mrs. Warren A. Russell, Mrs. John M. Schleede and Miss Virginia Curtis.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. John H. Haulenbeck, chairman of the telephone committee, or with Mrs. Schleede, or Mrs. Hollis M. Burhans, the general chairman of the affair.

Gloria Pickens 'Adopted' by Chapter

The proceeds of the party will be used again this year to provide a scholarship for Gloria Pickens, the attractive 11-year-old child who was 'adopted' by Wiltwyck Chapter last year, at Tamassee DAR School, Tamassee, S. C.

Tamassee is one of two co-educational schools, owned and operated by the Daughters of the American Revolution in the Southern mountain area. Its enrollment is considerably over 400, of which number 200 or more are boarding students. Most of these children come from homes of limited means, located in sections remote from public school facilities, and their food, clothing, medical and dental care must be provided through scholarships given by Chapters of the National Society and interested individuals.

Children Get Practical Training
The children at Tamassee range in age from six through high school seniors, and receive training not only in the usual academic subjects but also in shop, handicrafts, home economics, agriculture and music. The School operates orchards, gardens, a farm and a dairy. Girls receive practical instruction in cooking, sewing and home nursing.

Through its outreach program, Tamassee now serves 80 mountain communities, sprawling over the Appalachian hills in three states. It was established in 1919 with 50 students by South Carolina DAR members, and took its name from an Indian word meaning "The Place of the Sunlight of God." Over more than thirty years it has truly measured up to that name.

Bus Hearing Held

sation when Becker last September when Shaver spoke with him. John Pope of Kingston, a Public Service Commission motor vehicle inspector, was called and testified he had observed one of the Acker buses on the streets of Kingston on two instances in September bearing a sign, "Operating for DeForrest Shaver." Pope said a Shaver bus had had an accident at Creek Locks on August 17 when the driver attempted to avoid a dog on the road at Creek Locks. The bus was damaged and sent to Poughkeepsie for repairs. August 17 was the last he saw a Shaver bus in operation. He said a local taxicab company had brought workers to Kingston from along the Shaver route after that.

On cross examination Pope said the taxi service had not been operating the Shaver franchise. The cab company he identified as the George Geuss Taxi Service. He said the cabs had brought workers to Kingston from along the former Shaver route.

Harold Acker, president of the Acker Bus Line, Inc., was called and testified Shaver had asked to rent a bus on various dates. He said he had rented or chartered a bus to Shaver for which he had been partially paid. Shaver's son had ridden the bus and collected fares on the Shaver franchise runs and none of the fares were collected by Acker's driver. He said he had rented buses to Shaver on various dates, including the month of June 1953. He rented a bus at various dates until September 21 but since then has not rented to Shaver.

Acker said he never considered the Shaver route his own run but had chartered the buses to help out Shaver as he had done to other bus lines when they required emergency transportation.

Acker said at the hearing today was the first he had knowledge of the conversation between Shaver and the commission to the effect that he, Acker, would take over the Shaver franchise.

Other companies also operated buses for Shaver at various times, apparently on a rental basis. Not since September 21 had Acker rented a bus and driver to Shaver.

Robert O'Reilly, accountant for the Acker lines, was called and testified on his books he had entered four payments to Acker from Shaver for rental of chartered buses. The account was entered under the "charter or lease" account and none of the fares collected on those occasions were received by Acker. O'Reilly said the Shaver account had not been paid in full as yet.

Decision was reserved and the hearings closed.

Kingston, Poughkeepsie Ready for DUSO Championship Test

Both Squads 'Up' And Confident For the Big One

Record Throng Due to Watch Unbeaten Teams

Undeclared and fired-up Kingston High meets similarly unsullied Poughkeepsie High in the great battle for the DUSO League title and a place in area scholastic football history Saturday at 2 p. m. at Butts Memorial Field.

A record breaking throng for Poughkeepsie is expected to watch the struggle of the unbeaten titans in one of the most unique battles in DUSO history. Title at Stake

The DUSO title and a probable undefeated season goes to the winner. That is the case with Poughkeepsie which would close its campaign with sixth straight triumphs and fourth conference title.

Kingston would still have to get by Newburgh Academy, if it whipped the ponderous Blues in their own balliwick.

Coach Sam Kalloch was hopeful of completing the seventh undefeated season in his 30-plus years at the Bridge City school. Kingston High, having whipped the Blues, would need only a triumph over Newburgh Academy to take its place with the legendary 1929-33-37 squads of Coach G. Warren Kias and Bill Burke's series of powerful post-war machines.

Spirit Running High

School spirit was at fever pitch at both schools. Kingston held an "A" assembly reeking with optimism. According to Coach Kias one of the largest Kingston delegations in history would make the trip to Poughkeepsie.

Both coaches are cautiously confident and both resorted to the old clichés that anything can happen in a ball game like this. Seldom have two power-laden, undefeated squads like these two clashed head-on for the big jackpot.

In five outings to date, Poughkeepsie has demonstrated greater scoring ability than Kingston but the defenses are equal. The Blues have used the forward pass to good advantage and it will be up to the Kingston line to control the Poughkeepsie aerial circus.

Both teams are predominantly senior which adds to the eagerness of both groups to sing their swansong among the immortal football heroes of their school.

Weather predictions are good and Memorial Field should be a perfect setting for the pivotal game.

Knicks Romp Over Warriors

(By The Associated Press) The New York Knickerbockers, a fast-breaking outfit on the court, haven't wasted any time in racing away from their rivals in the eastern division of the National Basketball Association.

With the season only two weeks old, the defending eastern champs have won five of six games while their closest competitors, the Philadelphia Warriors and the Syracuse Nats, have 4-3 records. New York thrashed Philadelphia 81-65 and Syracuse bowed to Fort Wayne 78-74 last night. The Pistons, moved into undisputed possession of first place in the western division with a 4-2 won-lost mark.

The Knicks held a 34-30 half-time advantage before they busted the game wide open by outscoring the Warriors 18-6 in the third period. Harry Gallatin topped New York with 21 points—nine in the third stanza. Neil Johnston was high for Philadelphia with 18.

Scott's 45 Points Pace Stone Ridge

Bob Scott unloaded 45 points as Stone Ridge humbled the High Falls Firemen, 81-40, Wednesday at the Marletown Central school court.

The Ridgers did their heaviest damage in the second half, outscoring the Firemen 46-20. Scott rimmed 22 fields and a free throw. V. Stella contributed 24 to the winning total.

George Smith paced the Firemen with 16 points.

The score: Stone Ridge (81)—Stella 24, Scott 45, Schreiner 8, Kelder 8, Koster 6, Derringer 4.

High Falls (40)—P. Battelle 11, A. Battelle 6, Smith 16, K. Countryman 6, S. Countryman 2.

99-1 Shot Wins

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—A 99-to-1 long shot and a 6-1 Hazard, Troic and Tornabuoni, combined for a $1,454.30 daily double at Jamaica race track yesterday. A total of 61 $2 doubles were sold on the 7-9 combination along with two $10 doubles.

Luncheon Chit Chat

Jimmy Dykes, new manager of the Baltimore Orioles and the club's general manager, Art Ehlers, left, chat at luncheon in Baltimore. Dykes was picked by Ehlers to guide Baltimore in its return to major league baseball after nearly half a century. Both worked together for the Philadelphia Athletics last season.

Rested, Ready Gavilan 8-5 Choice Over Bratton

Chicago, Nov. 13 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, razor-sharp and making the 147-pound weight limit without a strain, is a solid 8-5 choice to retain his welterweight championship tonight from a threatening and determined Johnny Bratton.

The 15-round fight, promising to be a scorcher, will be televised (NBC) and broadcast (ABC) nationally starting at 10 p. m., EST. The Chicago area is blacked out on TV, boosting the Chicago Stadium crowd to an expected 17,000 with a net gate of about $130,000.

Bratton, who at 26 has been in the ring professionally for nine years, will receive 20 per cent of the net and $10,000 from a TV cut—in all approximately $36,000 that should get him out of hock after a spending spree as a teenage phenom.

Gavilan, making his seventh defense of his crown since taking a 15-round decision from Bratton, then the NBA titleholder, in New York two years ago, will get 40 per cent of the net gate and TV.

Third Meeting

It will be the third meeting of the two and should be a sizzler. Gavilan became the third fighter to fracture Bratton's jaw in their first scrap and Bratton also broke his hand in that maul. Later in 1951 they met in an overweight non-title bout at Chicago Stadium that was ruled a draw. Gavilan claimed he was a victim of a home town decision and says: "I whip him for sure this time. . . there be no doubts."

Gavilan won a great Chicago following when he easily stopped Chuck Davey in the 10th at the Stadium last February.

Interest in the Cuban Hawk's defense tonight is sharpened by his uninspired job in September at Syracuse against Carmen Basilio. Basilio scored a knockdown and Gavilan was hard pressed to get a decision.

Gavilan had to shed eight pounds in two weeks to make the 147-pound weight for Basilio. This time he has trained faithfully and should have no excuses if he loses.

Down Only Twice

In 112 fights, only Ke Williams and Basilio have felled the Kid. Bratton has been down only once, knocked by a guy named Robert Earl in 1945. He got up and chilled Earl in the same round, the third.

If Bratton ever needs a victory it is now. He knows he has everything to gain, and a loss would slide him back into the category of just another welterweight on the peanut circuit.

George Baird Cracks 665 Series, Weishaupt 653 in Ferraro Major

The first of the Poughkeepsie importations hit the jackpot in the Ferraro Major League last night. George Baird, the slim thrower with the exaggerated backswing, fired a 665 blast with solos of 243, 257 and 165. Baird is one of four Bridge City veterans who bowl with the Rafalowsky squad. In the Hudson Valley League he carries a 195-17 average for 27 games with the powerful Veteran Cabs.

Seven others besides Baird slammed into the "600" groove with Larry Weishaupt pounding 653, Harold Broskie 638 as Tony's Pizzeria cracked for 2908.

William "Chief" Mueller toppled 604, George Robinson 615, Clifton Quick 600, Whitey Crispell 601, and George Shufeldt 605.

Phyl Gehring and Jennie Spada shared Central Rec Women's honors with 186 and 534 and in New Paltz, Nellie Alverson (201) and Pat Millham (504) were the top shooters.

Helen Sutton took over both departments in the Chalet Pioneers with 166 and 591, while Shirley Greene scored a double in the Sisterhood League with 183 and 460.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Three items, correlated but different in meaning and timeliness, dovetailed yesterday to bridge the past, present and future of professional basketball.

One was the second anniversary of the death of the great Carl Husta, one of professional basketball's all-time immortals of the pre-World War 2 era.

Another related to the signing of Marquis Haynes, fantastic dribbling wizard of the Harlem Globetrotters with the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association for a reported $35,000 per year.

This would be the highest salary in the history of the sport, surpassing Big George Mikan's reputed $21,000 per annum.

The third item of interest was the basketball series written by Joe Lapchick for the Associated Press entitled "40 Years of Basketball" covering the highlights of the former Original Celtics' 40 years as player and coach. He is the current mentor of the New York Knickerbockers of the NBA.

And just for good measure, the mails brought an invitation to attend a testimonial dinner for John D. "Honey" Russell, the Seton Hall coach and a contemporary of Husta and Lapchick Dec. 1 at Newark.

Carl Tops With Gottlieb:

Of Husta we know much as Kingston's greatest all-round basketball player. Some will choose Benny Borgmann, but Carl was always our No. 1 choice because he could do more things better. Ed Gottlieb, who piloted the Philadelphia Sphas in "Pop" Morgenweck's days and now heads the NBA Philly Warriors, always picked Husta on his all-time pro team.

The fabulous Original Celtics probably reached their peak in 1927 when the roster had such famous stars as Lapchick, Chris Leonard, Dutch Dehnert, Pete Barry, Nat Holman and Johnny Beckman, who was "Pop" Morgenweck's choice as No. 1 player among the pros. The manager was John Witty.

Those Amusing Managers:

In the series, Lapchick relates a couple of interesting stories about the financial background of the Original Celtics, gaudier but less stable than today's financial giants of the NBA.

"We had a manager who was a department store cashier once," Joe writes. "Sometimes he would get behind in paying us by as much as five or six games. We'd often go to the store where he worked and he'd pay us for two or three games at a time."

"We often wondered how he did it until one day we read where he had been indicted for embezzling $190,000. Maybe some of it was Celtic money. We never knew, but we did know he was living pretty high, being a fast man with a buck."

The second owner of the Celtics was a beer runner in the mid-20s.

"I'll pay your back salaries," Lapchick recalls him saying as his opening sales talk to take over the club. "I've got to do something legitimate to show where my money comes from and you all know I've got money," he told us.

"He gave us contracts," says Joe. "and we signed them. We never had any trouble collecting from then on, but he had the Celtics only one year when he was killed by gangsters' bullets."

"One night he was driving his limousine up a one-way New York street. A car coming the other way loaded him with dum and bullets and that was the finish of the Celtics second manager."

Today the men behind big time basketball are well known businessmen and the players can be thankful for that.

In 1927 the Celtics became so strong that the American League president, Joe Carr, broke up the team.

"He sent me to the Cleveland Rosenblums, Dutch Dehnert and Pete Barry were assigned to Rochester; Nat Holman and Davey Banks went to the New York Hakoahs and Johnny Beckman to Baltimore—all for free."

In Retrospect:

"Looking back," sighs the Celtic mentor, "it appears more ridiculous than it did then, especially when one considers that the present-day New York Knickerbockers gave close to $40,000 to acquire Sweetwater Clifton and Max Zaslofsky. And a clown like Marquis Haynes draws $35,000 a year."

But such is the changing pattern of things—and basketball. In Joe Lapchick's day it was a complete possession game. There were only two shots in basketball—the set shot and the layup.

Any other shots were considered terrible sins. One man shot all the fouls regardless of who was pushed or tripped and a team's foul shooter was a real specialist—and always the high scorer.

But that was 40 years ago.

Illini Bid for Rose Bowl In Game With Wisconsin

All-America Way

Michigan Squads Are TV Special

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Illinois football team, which would like nothing better than to spend the Christmas holidays in California, runs into the biggest stumbling block in its path when it meets Wisconsin at Madison tomorrow.

Unbeaten in the Big 10, the Illini need one more victory to assure themselves of at least a tie for the conference title and its accompanying trip to the Rose Bowl.

Wisconsin, beaten in the Big 10 family only by Ohio State, still has conference title hopes and Badger Coach Ivy Williamson claims he knows how to stop J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates. If he has been able to pass along this knowledge to his players Williamson may well end up the winning coach tomorrow since Bates and Caroline are the Illinois attack.

Spartans on TV

At East Lansing, Michigan State, the other main candidate for the Big 10 crown, engages Michigan in the television game of the day. The Spartans figure to win. If they do they'll finish the conference season with a 5-1 record.

Illinois was ranked third in the nation in this week's Associated Press poll. Michigan State was No. 4.

First place Notre Dame journeys to Chapel Hill, N. C., to meet North Carolina, the nearest thing to a breather on the Irish schedule.

Maryland, the No. 2 club, plays host to Mississippi, No. 11. Like Notre Dame and West Virginia, Maryland is unbeaten. It was at this point last year, too. Then came Mississippi and a 21-14 licking. It looks as if it will be close again.

Fifth ranking Georgia Tech, which probably will operate without halfback Leon Hardeman out of the Southeastern Conference's top attraction at Birmingham against Alabama where the Crimson Tide are reported to be upset minded.

Chance For Sooners

Oklahoma has a chance to become the first team to clinch a major bowl this season. The Sooners entertain outclassed Iowa State while Kansas State, the second place team in the Big Seven Conference, is the underdog against Missouri. An Oklahoma victory and a Kansas State loss would wind up the Big Seven race which carries an Orange Bowl invitation. Oklahoma is ranked No. 6.

UCLA returns to action against Washington after a week's rest. The seventh-ranked Bruins, very much in the western half of the Rose Bowl picture, can tie for the coast conference lead since Stanford will be playing an outside date with San Jose State.

West Virginia, fresh from a couple of close ones against Penn State and Virginia Tech, probably won't find South Carolina much easier but the Mountaineers are expected to win.

The 80th anniversary game between Yale and Princeton—76th in football's oldest continuous series is expected to draw some 49,000 fans to Princeton tomorrow.

Princeton, which ruled the Big Three for six straight years of the platoon era, is given no better than an even chance to win its seventh title.

Fall River, Mass.—Ben Miloud, 135, French Morocco, outpointed Houston Brown, 134, New York, 10.

Average Life of Auto Increased

Since 1925, the average life of the average U. S. motor vehicle when scrapped has increased from 6.5 years to 14 years and the average mileage from 25,750 to 121,000.

Architectural Semantics

Greenville, S. C. (AP)—"Cafetorium" and "gymntorium" are words coined by the boom in school construction. "Cafetorium?" That's a cafeteria that can be used as the school auditorium between meals. "Gymntorium" is easy. That's a convertible gymnasium-auditorium.

Pact Is Invoked
Tokyo, Nov. 13 (AP)—Japan today invoked the U. S.-Japan Security Pact in a move to force South Korean "invaders" from Ting Takeshima Island in the Sea of Japan. Foreign Minister Katsumi Okazaki said Japan reminded the United States of its obligations to defend this country from invaders. Japan and Korea have been feuding for months over the rocky outcropping. Both countries claim it, and South Korea police who landed on the island not long ago have made it plain they will defend it.

The cotton pest, boll weevil, entered the United States from Mexico about 1892.

Hunter Phones Wife

Congers, Nov. 13 (AP)—Frank Randazzo, 30-year-old iron worker who left home six days ago on a deer hunting trip and had not been heard from since, telephoned his distraught wife last night to report he was safe. A police search had been ordered for Randazzo, who set out on his trip to Saranac Lake in the Adirondack Mountains at the outset of last Friday's snowstorm. Mrs. Randazzo said her husband telephoned from Saranac Lake that he had been "very deep in the woods" and had not been able to get to a telephone earlier. He had been expected back home last Monday.

Plans Are Approved
New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—Plans for a 10 million dollar Harpur College campus at Vestal, N. Y., liberal arts unit of the State University of New York, have been approved by State University trustees. The college is now in temporary quarters at Endicott, where 467 full-time and 321 part-time students are enrolled. An overall development plan for the new campus at Vestal was approved yesterday at a meeting of the board of trustees. The new 350-acre site will have facilities for 1,200 students, said State University President William S. Carlson.
